MAURICIO POCHETTINO

Good evening and welcome back.

Tonight sees the return of Champions League football to our wonderful stadium in what is our fourth successive campaign in the competition.

Playing against some of Europe's best teams in world-class stadia such as ours is what we as staff, players and fans look forward to and cherish. We have shown in recent years that we can compete against and beat the best European sides, and we shall be aiming to continue in this vein again this season.

Saturday's win against Southampton was an extremely important one going into this evening's game as it enabled us to recover our confidence after some disappointing results. The players deserve all the praise for the spirit and character they showed to secure the victory; I am so happy and proud for them, our staff and yourselves.

We started well on Saturday and deserved our lead. Being reduced to 10 men in the first half was always going to make for a much tougher contest so to see the players respond in the way they did, by sticking together as one and finding a way to win despite the numerical disadvantage, was extremely pleasing. We have great belief and we demonstrated that in abundance.

"THE PLAYERS DESERVE ALL THE PRAISE FOR THE SPIRIT AND CHARACTER THEY SHOWED TO SECURE THE VICTORY; I AM SO HAPPY AND PROUD FOR THEM, OUR STAFF AND YOURSELVES."

This evening we welcome Niko Kovac and his Bayern Munich side. Every team that competes in the Champions League is there because they are a top side and we recognise Bayern as being one of the strongest teams in the competition, with the quality they possess within their squad. We are obviously familiar with our opponents having met only recently in the Audi Cup, however this evening will be a totally different proposition.

We are all focused on achieving back-to-back victories tonight and giving ourselves the opportunity to continue to build momentum.

Your support was fantastic on Saturday afternoon and I want to thank you all for that. The footballing spotlight will be on N17 tonight and I am sure you will show the world how much this Club means to all of us and get behind the team as you always do.

Enjoy the game.

SAINTS VICTORY SO DESERVED SAYS VERTONGHEN

Jan Vertonghen talked about the mentality of playing with 10 men after the team recovered from Serge Aurier's sending off on the half-hour to beat Southampton on Saturday.

The central defender produced a faultless display alongside Toby Alderweireld as we held on for a vital 2-1 victory in the Premier League at the new stadium.

Leading 1-0 via Tanguy Ndombele's strike, the tide turned when Aurier received two yellow cards in quick succession and then Southampton levelled when Danny Ings caught Hugo Lloris in possession in the six-yard box.

Crucially, we hit back almost immediately through Harry Kane's goal following a superb counter-attack and it was down to the defensive structure and resolve of our 10 men – plus two world-class saves from Lloris – to keep Southampton at bay

So, what was it like to play with 10 men for an hour in the Premier League? "It's tough, mentally it makes you stronger," said Jan. "It's a strange phenomenon, teams with 10 men, they dig in deep and it brings you together.

"Maybe this is what we needed. We also created a couple of nice chances, but from the front to the back, everyone fought so hard and it's a big win for us. This win means a lot. We deserved it. We started well, had a bit of bad luck but yes, extremely happy with the win."

As for Southampton's goal and Hugo's recovery, Jan added: "We always try to play out from the back, Hugo had that in his mind and didn't see the first solution. He tried and that's what we want.

"We want to play out from the back and if the goalkeeper makes a mistake it's nearly always a goal, but if you see the saves he made after that... Hugo, mentally he's so strong and the same for Serge, he's aggressive and that's how we want to be. Today it meant a red card and a goal against us, but the win is for these guys."

WOMEN STUN HAMMERS IN HISTORIC WIN

Birthday girl Lucy Quinn stepped off the bench to score a crucial second goal as Spurs Women beat West Ham 2-0 in front of nearly 25,000 fans at the London Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

Quinn drilled in to give us breathing space after the hosts had squandered a number of second-half opportunities to get back into the game, with centre-back Hannah Godfrey putting in a Player of the Match display to keep the Hammers at bay.

Striker Rianna Dean earlier scored a superb header on what was her first start of the season, setting us on our way to our first-ever away victory in the Barclays FA Women's Super League.

There will be a full report and match reaction in our next matchday programme.

MAX SEEBURG
D.O.B: 19.09.1884

As part of an occasional feature, Andy Greeves takes at a look at former Spurs players who made just a single competitive appearance for us. Today, he explores the career of German forward Max Seeburg, who featured once in our first season in the Football League in 1908/09.

When Germany forward Max Seeburg made his Football League debut in our 1-0 Second Division defeat at Hull City in September 1908, he became the first European player from outside the UK and Ireland to feature as a professional for an English club.

Born in Leipzig on 19 September, 1884, Max Paul Seeburg moved to London at the age of two where his father ran a shop close to Tower Bridge. Early in his football career, he turned out for Tottenham Park in the North Middlesex League and also had a spell at Cheshunt prior to signing for Chelsea in 1906. He failed to make a first team appearance for the Blues but featured for their reserve side in the South Eastern League, twice lining up against our second string XI during the 1906/07 season.

Seeburg moved across the capital to join us in May 1907, receiving a £2 signing-on fee in the process. He scored a hat-trick in his first known appearance for us, as we beat Union Saint-Gilloise 8-1 in a friendly in Ostend on 19 May, 1907.

The German made numerous appearances for us in our pre-Football League days but is the subject of this article as he only ever played one competitive match for us as a professional. During the 1907/08 season, he netted five times in 15 Southern League fixtures for us and also turned out in the Western League and Southern Charity Cup. The German returned to his former club Chelsea on 22 February, 1908 for a friendly match and got our goal in a 1-1 draw watched by around 10,000 spectators at Stamford Bridge.

Following our election to the Football League in 1908, we paid a fee of £30 to Chelsea in order to secure Seeburg's registration. His solitary appearance for us as a professional came in front of a crowd of around 12,000 for the aforementioned Second Division defeat at Hull City's former Anlaby Road ground on 26 September, 1908. The following month he departed N17 to sign for Leyton for a fee of £50.

Seeburg scored eight goals in 48 Southern League matches for the east London club with his form bringing him to the attention of then-Second Division side, Burnley. He featured in 17 league matches for the Clarets during the 1910/11 season before his departure to Grimsby Town, who had just gained election back to the Football League following a campaign in the Midland League.

After 20 league appearances for Grimsby, Seeburg signed for Reading in 1911 for whom he scored twice in eight Southern League appearances. During his time with the Royals, he became a public house manager, although he was originally a carpenter by trade. After his final season as a senior player in 1912/13, the forward became a regular feature of Reading's reserve team in the South Eastern League, lining-up against us in February 1914.

As a German national, Seeburg found himself interned for a period of time at the beginning of World War I before enlisting into the Army's 30th Middlesex Regiment – an infantry Works (Alien) Battalion - in August 1918 and transferred to Army Reserve the following June. In January 1920, while living in Reading and working as a steward at Reading Football Club, the then-retired player was given a certificate of naturalisation and was granted British citizenship.

Seeburg worked as a cabinet maker in later life before passing away at a residential home in Thatcham, Berkshire, on 24 January, 1972 at the age of 87.

ALSO FEATURING

Born in nearby Edmonton on 19 December, 1964, Robert Brace joined us an apprentice in April 1981. The forward scored 14 goals in 34 youth team matches in his first full season with us in 1981/82 and followed that up with three strikes in 13 reserve matches the following campaign.

On 7 May, 1984, Brace came on as a substitute for Garry Brooke to make his one and only first-team appearance in our colours in a 5-0 First Division defeat at Southampton. He was released from the Club that summer and subsequently signed for top-flight Belgian outfit K. Waterschei S.V. Thor Genk. The forward moved to Dutch side De Graafschap the following year before joining 2. Bundesliga club 1.FC Saarbrucken in 1986, where he scored nine goals in 45 appearances in all competitions through until 1988. He has remained in Germany since and currently works for Mercedes-Benz.

Heung-Min Son

Heung-Min Son has already made Champions League history here at our new stadium. Now he's after another, more personal milestone against Bayern Munich as he renews acquaintances with a Bundesliga heavyweight he knows only too well on the return of European football's most prestigious competition to N17 this evening.

'Sonny' carved his name into Spurs folklore in April when he scored the first goal at our world-class venue against Crystal Palace in the Premier League and followed up by hitting the first Champions League goal here against Manchester City. It was a purple patch for the South Korean star that continued with two goals in the second leg to see us through at the Etihad and continue our path to the final in Madrid.

"Sometimes I can't even begin to think about the fact I actually scored the first goal ever at the new stadium," Sonny reflected. "You almost don't realise the significance of it because it is so special. And then to score the first Champions League goal as well… I still have these memories in my head, they are unbelievable. I'm so proud, so happy."

"YOU ALMOST DON'T REALISE THE SIGNIFICANCE OF IT BECAUSE IT IS SO SPECIAL. AND THEN TO SCORE THE FIRST CHAMPIONS LEAGUE GOAL AS WELL… I STILL HAVE THESE MEMORIES IN MY HEAD, THEY ARE UNBELIEVABLE."

We're back on the Champions League path again this evening with Matchday Two of Group B, and a club first – having played Bayern Munich in successive seasons in the Cup Winners' Cup and UEFA Cup back in the 1980s, this is our first Champions League encounter against the giants from Bavaria.

German champions 29 times – including a current run of seven on the trot – Bayern Munich have won the European Cup/Champions League on five occasions. Their last triumph in this competition was in 2013, just down the road at Wembley Stadium when they beat German rivals Borussia Dortmund, and that is a team Sonny remembers only too well.

Bayern's 2012/13 vintage fell in the middle of Sonny's five years in the Bundesliga. Initially signing for Hamburg SV in 2008, Sonny made his Bundesliga debut in 2010 and made 78 appearances before switching to Bayer Leverkusen in 2013. He played 85 times for Leverkusen before moving to Spurs at the start of the 2015/16 campaign.

"At the time they were one of the strongest teams in the world," said Sonny of that Bayern Munich team. "They were an attacking team that created many, many chances, always dangerous, always difficult to play against and always difficult to score against. They didn't lose many games."

Sonny should know. With the likes of Arjen Robben, Thomas Muller, Franck Ribery, Xherden Shaqiri, Mario Mandzukic and Mario Gomes in forward areas, backed-up by the likes of Manuel Neuer in goal, Philipp Lahm, Bastien Schweinsteiger and Toni Kroos, Bayern - then managed by Uli Hoeness - lost just one game (in 34) in the Bundesliga, finishing with a +80 goal difference. If that wasn't enough, they added Pep Guardiola as coach for 2013/14 and the goals of Robert Lewandowski from 2014/15, Sonny's final season in German before joining us.

Sonny's record against our recent European adversaries Borussia Dortmund is incredible – nine goals in 11 appearances for Hamburg, Bayer Leverkusen and Spurs – but he hasn't registered in nine matches against Bayern Munich. However, he helped Bayer Leverkusen to a 2-0 win against them in his final season – one of only five defeats on their way to another title.

"THEY ARE ONE OF THE BIGGEST TEAMS IN EUROPE AND YOU ARE ALWAYS EXCITED TO PLAY IN THESE GAMES. I'M REALLY LOOKING FORWARD TO IT, I CAN'T WAIT TO PLAY AGAINST THEM AGAIN."

"These will be special games against Bayern Munich," he added. "They are one of the biggest teams in Europe and you are always excited to play in these games. I'm really looking forward to it, I can't wait to play against them again.

"The Champions League is always special and playing against Bayern Munich will be amazing. We should try to perform as we do always in these games and focus on ourselves. Look, we've beaten Real Madrid, Borussia Dortmund, Manchester City and Inter Milan all at home in recent seasons. We know we have to believe and fight in every single moment in this competition."

We kicked off our Group B campaign with a 2-2 draw against Olympiacos of Greece a fortnight ago. In an intense atmosphere in Piraeus, Athens, we forged into a 2-0 lead before the home side hit back.

That underlined just how tough it is in the Champions League. Olympiacos, unbeaten since February and Crvena zvezda (Red Star Belgrade), who lifted the Serbian title unbeaten last season, both began their qualifying campaigns in July. By the time we play Crvena zvezda on Matchday Three, it will be their 11th match in the competition this term – we played 13 all the way to the final last season!

"There are never easy games in the Champions League," said Sonny. "It's always up to us and how we perform. We need to be ready for every single game in this competition and remember what we did last season. We can learn from that as well. We all hope to have a successful competition, hopefully even better than last season."

Sonny has another reason to break his duck against Bayern Munich – he's just two goals away from moving into fourth in our list of all-time goalscorers in European competition. The forward currently has 12 goals in 35 appearances, level with Dimitar Berbatov. Mark Falco, Alan Gilzean and Martin Peters are all in his sights on 13 goals.

After that, Martin Chivers (22 goals), Jermain Defoe (23) and Harry Kane (25) are our current top three goalscorers in Europe. Legendary striker Martin, two goals in the first leg of our UEFA Cup Final triumph in 1972, held that honour from 1974-2013 when he was overtaken by Jermain. Harry leapfrogged JD with his winner against Borussia Dortmund in March. He stretched that to 25 goals with the opener against Olympiacos two weeks ago.

SCENE SETTER

Previewing this evening's Champions League group stage meeting with Bayern Munich, looking at the form guide, previous encounters with German sides and a whole host of vital statistics…

DID YOU KNOW?

We have won eight of our last 11 Champions League home games (L3), keeping a clean sheet in three of our last four.

2010
A first Champions League home clash against German opponents as we ran out 3-0 victors against Werder Bremen with goals from Kaboul, Modric and Crouch.
2019
A magnificent win over Borussia Dortmund last season as we won our Champions League round of 16, first leg game 3-0, Son, Vertonghen and Llorente all on target.
1999
Steffen Iversen's penalty was all that separated the sides as we beat Kaiserslautern at the Lane in a UEFA Cup second round, first leg tie, but lost the return 2-0.
1982
Bayern's first visit to the Lane for a European tie ended all square at 1-1, Steve Archibald and Paul Breitner netting for their respective teams.
1974
FC Cologne were our first-ever German opponents in competitive action and we enjoyed a 3-0 home win in the UEFA Cup, Chivers, Peters and Coates scoring.

PREVIOUS MEETINGS

Tonight will be our 24th competitive meeting against German opponents, with 13 wins and seven defeats so far. We take a look at five of those previous successes on home soil…

HEAD TO HEAD

This is the fifth time we have faced Bayern Munich in European action. Of the previous four, we've won one, drawn one and lost twice – losing both away fixtures.

GOALS GALORE

We have scored in 23 of our 25 Champions League group stage matches, only failing to score home and away against German side Bayer Leverkusen in 2016-17.

GROUP FORM

Bayern are unbeaten in their last 11 Champions League group stage games, winning nine times and scoring 28 goals in the process (2.5 per game).

HEAD TO HEAD

TEAM FORM

Spurs:	Bayern Munich:

We have won only once in our last five Champions League matches, but that victory was the stunning 3-2 comeback win away to Ajax in the second leg of last season's semi-final. We have conceded two or more goals in four of those games but also netted two or more in three of them, including scoring three goals in away matches with Ajax and Manchester City.

Bayern enjoyed a 3-0 win over Crvena zvezda in their first game of Champions League Group B on Matchday One, stretching their run of unbeaten group stage matches to 11. They exited last season's competition in the last 16, losing 3-1 at home to Liverpool after a goalless draw at Anfield. They sit second in the Bundesliga with three wins and two draws from their opening five games.

THOMAS MULLER
D.O.B: 12.09.89
POSITION: FORWARD
NATIONALITY: GERMAN

Bavarian-born Muller has been a stalwart for club and country for over a decade, winning a huge array of trophies for Bayern and Germany during that time. He's also established himself as the man for the big occasion, demonstrating an uncanny knack for scoring vital goals in big games. He came through the ranks at Bayern and was given his debut by Louis van Gaal in 2008, quickly establishing himself as a first-team regular. He's since won the Bundesliga on eight occasions, as well as the German Cup five times and the Champions League in 2013. At international level he scored five goals at the 2010 World Cup as Germany finished third, before scoring another five at the 2014 tournament as Die Mannschaft lifted the trophy. Muller is comfortable in an array of positions along the forward line, and is always liable to pop up in front of goal.

No stranger to English football fans, playmaker Coutinho enjoyed a successful five-year spell at Liverpool, scoring 54 goals in 201 appearances before making a move to Barcelona for a reported 160million euro fee. However, he struggled to recapture his best form at the Nou Camp, and joined Bayern on loan this summer.

MATCH GALLERY

Our most recent meeting with Bayern Munich came during the summer when we faced each other in the final of the pre-season tournament, the Audi Cup, hosted by the German club.

In the semi-finals, we beat Real Madrid 1-0 thanks to a Harry Kane goal, while Bayern thumped Galatasaray 6-1 to set up the final clash.

The trophy was decided in a penalty shoot-out after a 2-2 draw in 90 minutes and Paulo Gazzaniga was the hero of the hour, saving spot-kicks from David Alaba and Jerome Boateng.

Audi Cup Final

TRUE COLOURS

We all have our favourites when it comes to past Spurs kits and, sometimes, they can evoke memories of specific games, moments and the players who wore them. Continuing our new series for the 2019/20 season, Billy Shaw chats to our players – past and present – to find out what comes into their minds when they look back at a selection of our shirts from seasons gone by. Tonight, we speak to Harry Kane, who has famously come up through our Academy to establish himself as an elite-level striker for Club and country…

SPURS AWAY KIT, 2009/10

"I want to say this kit reminds me of Jermain Defoe," said Harry. "I remember him scoring a hat-trick away at Hull wearing this kit. It was quite early in the season as I recall and JD was in great form.

"He must have scored a couple of goals early on but I remember his hat-trick goal right at the end – a real banger!

"I think it was Aaron Lennon who laid it off to him and he put it in from about 20 yards."

We'd travelled to the KC Stadium off the back of an excellent 2-1 opening-day home win over Liverpool and, as Harry alluded to, it was very much the Defoe show as we made it two from two with a 5-1 thrashing of the Tigers.

After a neat turn and shot from the England international, central midfielder Wilson Palacios scored his first goal in English football. Hull pulled one back through Stephen Hunt's free-kick, but Defoe doubled his tally on the stroke of half-time to put us back in firm control.

Robbie Keane got in on the act in the second period before, exactly as Harry described, JD finished off his treble in style in stoppage time, crashing a shot home from outside the box.

SPURS HOME KIT, 2005/06

"Keano comes to mind with this kit and his goal against Blackburn where he flicked it over the guy's head from the throw-in," said Harry.

"I would have been about 12 or 13 when the Club had this kit. In fact, I think it was one of the first kits I had in the Academy.

"I was 11 when I came here and I remember wearing that shirt in various junior games but, as far as senior players go, I'd have to pick Robbie Keane as the person who I'd associate it with."

The goal Harry referred to initially was one of our former Irish striker's most iconic goals in our colours, which came in a 3-2 home victory over Blackburn in March, 2006.

Mido took a throw-in down by the corner flag in the north-east corner of White Hart Lane, finding Keane at the side of the box. He proceeded to flick the ball over Robbie Savage's head, then skipped past Andy Todd before converting, much to the delight of our home faithful.

The all-action front man scored a second towards the end of the first half, while it was Mido himself who popped up with the eventual winning goal after the visitors had hauled themselves back level.

SPURS HOME KIT, 2014/15

"Obviously I have some amazing memories of playing and scoring in this kit but to be honest, it really reminds me of Ryan Mason and his breakthrough game against Nottingham Forest," said Harry.

"It was a League Cup tie at the Lane, I remember we both came on at the same time and Mase scored that wonderful goal from long range to help us get through. As we all know, we ended up getting into the final of the competition that season."

Home-grown midfielder Mason had, of course, played for us in Europe a handful of times in the early stages of his career but after a series of spells out on loan, it was Mauricio Pochettino who brought him into the squad on a permanent basis after being impressed with his performances on our summer tour of the USA.

Remarkably, Mason had actually played for our Under-21s at Sunderland on the Monday night – just 48 hours before we took on Forest on 24 September, 2014. Mauricio introduced him along with Harry shortly after we'd gone 1-0 down and, within seven minutes, the talented central midfielder had fired us back on level terms with a stunning strike. Roberto Soldado and Harry himself turned things around as we won 3-1.

"Yes, I'll definitely give this one to Mase," added Harry, assessing the kit once more. "That was his first season as a permanent figure in the squad, like it was for a lot of us with the new manager, and obviously we all know how well he did."

Mason is now our Academy Coach with responsibility for our UEFA Youth League side. He led our young team against Bayern Munich Under-19s at Hotspur Way earlier this afternoon.

Our current third kit represents the first time we've worn light blue in a match environment since the 2013/14 campaign.

Our away kit during that season, Harry remembers donning this particular number during his first run of Premier League starts towards the end of that campaign.

"Looking at this one, it reminds me of a goal I scored away at West Brom when Tim Sherwood was in charge," Harry said.

"It was my second Premier League start for Spurs and I'd just come off the back of scoring on my first league start at home to Sunderland. We found ourselves 3-0 down but came back to draw 3-3 right at the end."

Having had such a disappointing start at The Hawthorns, the draw in the game Harry is referring to felt like a victory. Albion surged into a three-goal lead in just over half-an-hour while Emmanuel Adebayor missed a penalty, but Jonas Olsson's own goal gave us hope.

"It was 3-1 at that point and I managed to score a header to get it back to 3-2," Harry continued. "I remember Naughts (Kyle Naughton) and Azza (Aaron Lennon) were playing down the right, it was crossed in, I scored and then we ended up scoring the equaliser through Christian (Eriksen) right at the end. It was a good result considering where we were in the first half."

Chris Hughton

MEMORIES OF MUNICH

Paul Miles speaks to the ever-popular Chris Hughton, who recalls his previous clashes with Bayern Munich and continues to reminisce on his Spurs career with fondness.

"I remember the fog-bound game, difficult to forget that one!" Chris Hughton is recalling our back-to-back European ties with Bayern Munich in the early 1980s. One ended in foggy disappointment, the other in pure jubilation. No guessing which he prefers, even if he did score in Munich!

Let's start in the European Cup Winners' Cup in the 1982/83 season. We had the better of the first leg at the Lane, Steve Archibald netted early, we missed chances, Paul Breitner levelled and Garth Crooks was denied by a point-blank save from Jean-Marie Pfaff late on.

The fog in the second game was so bad, Stuart Jones, reporting for The Times, described the scene as 'a perfect back drop for an Alfred Hitchcock production'. A check on YouTube shows this was no exaggeration! Anyway, we went down 4-1. Bayern were 3-0 up and clear when Chris finished off a fine move for his first European goal. "I think it's fair to say if it was a league game, it might well have been called off," reflected Chris. "We played well in the first leg, perhaps deserved more. The return was a difficult night for us."

Fast-forward a year and we had a season to remember in the UEFA Cup in 1983/84, culminating with us winning the final at the Lane after beating Anderlecht on penalties. In the third round, we faced our old rivals from Bavaria again.

This time, we played in Munich first, our hearts broken by Michael Rummenigge's late goal. This time, we turned it around. We did everything but score in the first half at the Lane before Archibald broke the deadlock on 50 minutes. Bayern staged a comeback but we kept them at bay and then Mark Falco struck from Glenn Hoddle's pass to send us through. Six months later, Graham Roberts lifted the trophy.

"We were brilliant second time around," said Chris. "We dominated the first half. The crowd were fantastic. The noise! I remember the celebrations. It was one of those great nights at the Lane.

"Bayern Munich were a fantastic team at that time, European Cup finalists in 1982, household names in that era like Pfaff, Rummenigge, Paul Breitner. It was just a fantastic time to be at the club and those European nights. Look at the teams we played – Bayern Munich, Barcelona, Real Madrid, Ajax, Feyenoord, Anderlecht, all top, top teams."

Chris played 30 times for us in Europe, an important part of his life at Spurs as player, coach and assistant manager for over 27 years between 1977 and 2007, his time only interrupted by spells late in his playing career at West Ham and Brentford. An FA Cup winner in 1981 and 1982, UEFA Cup winner in 1984, he made 398 appearances in our colours and was also capped 53 times by the Republic of Ireland including appearances at Euro 88 and the 1990 World Cup.

Chris first walked through the gates at the Lane aged 13 in 1971, first signed forms in 1974, signed part-time professional forms in 1977 and finally

"WE DOMINATED THE FIRST HALF. THE CROWD WERE FANTASTIC. THE NOISE! I REMEMBER THE CELEBRATIONS. IT WAS ONE OF THOSE GREAT NIGHTS AT THE LANE."

Chris Hughton

joined us full-time in July, 1979 after completing his apprenticeship as a lift engineer.

Two months later – 40 years a little over a month ago – he made his first team debut against Manchester United in the League Cup. He was 19 and didn't look back.

Eleven years as a player included those 'glory, glory' years of the early 1980s with the likes of Ossie Ardiles, Ricky Villa, Glenn Hoddle, Steve Perryman, Graham Roberts, Paul Miller, Ray Clemence, Micky Hazard, Steve Archibald, Gareth Crooks and Mark Falco.

"Wonderful times," he added. "The biggest highlight has to be the 1981 FA Cup Final. Apart from Ossie and Ricky, who had won the World Cup (1978), Stevie Archibald at Aberdeen and of course Stevie P, who won trophies in the early 1970s, a lot of us in that group of players hadn't won a trophy before.

"For myself, Robbo, Maxy, Tony Galvin, Garth, Glenn, it was our first achievement. It meant so much to a lot of us. It was my first one as well. That has to be closely followed by the UEFA Cup in 1984. It meant so much winning at White Hart Lane."

UEFA CHAMPIONS LEAGUE

Chris Hughton

Chris returned as coach in 1993 and was at the Club for another 14 years. "From a coaching point of view, I loved all of it," he added. "I worked with a lot of managers, that range from Christian Gross through to Martin Jol and included Glenn, George Graham, even Jacques Santini."

Management spells followed at Newcastle United, Birmingham City, Norwich City and most recently Brighton, who he took into the Premier League in 2017. He was back here at the Club and the new stadium in April, where his Brighton side pushed us all the way before we finally broke through via a Christian Eriksen cracker late in the game. A poignant moment pre-match saw him back alongside fellow early 80s icons Ossie and Ricky. He was home, but his mind was on the job in hand. Yet Spurs is and always will be home.

"From where I am as a manager now, there is no doubt Tottenham set me up for that in what I was able to be involved in as a coach," he said. "I've seen players develop, seen players have such great careers and I'm consistently seeing team sheets with players who have had an association with Spurs, so many. That's very rewarding.

"I managed to play just under 400 games at Tottenham and whenever anyone speaks to me about Spurs, the obvious thing is playing but I think of the whole lot, the 27 years.

"If you'd asked me as a young player whether I'd have had the coaching and managerial career I've had, I would have said 'no'. I didn't have the football background of other players so to go on and be a coach at Tottenham for so long, that's something I never thought would happen.

"FROM WHERE I AM AS A MANAGER NOW, THERE IS NO DOUBT TOTTENHAM SET ME UP FOR THAT IN WHAT I WAS ABLE TO BE INVOLVED IN AS A COACH."

"I tend to look at it all over a 27-year period, playing, coming back and coaching with Ossie, being at the club for so long, for me it's been a privilege. That's what I'm most proud of.

"As a young kid I never really supported a team. I was from east London, always playing football but didn't support a team. My father wasn't really interested in football. From when I came to Tottenham aged 13, that was it. Spurs are my team and always will be, no matter where I manage. That hasn't changed and never will."

FALCO MAKES HIS MARK!

Late drama at White Hart Lane in December, 1983, as Mark Falco's effort beats Bayern Munich goalkeeper Jean-Marie Pfaff in the 86th-minute to put us ahead 2-1 on aggregate in our UEFA Cup third round tie – and we would go on to lift the trophy here in N17 that season.

DYNAMIC DUOS

KLOSE AND TONI

In the course of history there have been legendary on-field partnerships formed at every club, whose combined efforts have gone on to leave a lasting impact and cultural legacy. With tonight's visit of Bayern Munich, Liam Carson takes a look at how strikers Miroslav Klose and Luca Toni came together in Bavaria to form a prolific partnership that returned Die Roten back to the top of German football.

"We were only able to communicate with our hands and feet," is how German Miroslav Klose recalled the early moments of life in Bavaria with Italian Luca Toni. They were both of different languages and cultures, yet there was an instant click between the forwards that would lead to a prolific partnership in front of goal.

The pair had arrived in Munich in the summer of 2007 in what was a peculiar period for their new club. The German-record champions had struggled in the previous season and had consequently missed out on a Champions League place for the first time in a decade. For the Bayern board, it was a situation that needed rectifying immediately, so they took the decision to invest heavily in their playing squad. Franck Ribery, Hamit Alintop, Marcell Jansen and Ze Roberto were all brought in that summer, as well the statements signings of Klose and Toni.

It was a time when footballing philosophy was also evolving and diverging rapidly. The use of 'tika-taka' and the 'false nine' were on the rise in the game while 4-4-2 was seen as an archaic formation. Yet, Bayern had just made a significant outlay for two big-name strikers, as well as a pacey winger in Ribery, so it seemed Die Roten were intending to persist with that most famous of formations.

To complement that set-up, the German club had selected two attackers with world-renowned pedigree. The year prior, the pair had caught the eye on the biggest stage as they made a name for themselves in the World Cup Finals. Taking place in his home nation, Klose had finished as the competition's top scorer with five goals, while Toni had played his part in Italy becoming world champions. Yet there were still concerns with the additions, especially as the Italian had already had his 30th birthday, while Klose was not far behind at 29-years-old. It was noted however, that the pair had been something of late bloomers in the game.

Toni had spent much of his early professional career out of the spotlight as he forged his footballing path in Serie B. It wasn't until he was 23 that he first appeared in Italy's top-flight with Vincenza, while it was a move to Palermo in 2003 where he would make his major breakthrough.

Dropping back down again to Serie B, the towering forward fired in 30 goals in his first season with I Rosanero, catapulting them back to Serie A, where he went on to score another 20 goals the following year to help the Sicily-based outfit secure a place in the UEFA Cup for the first time in their history.

On the move again the following year, he joined Fiorentina and it was there that he made his statement as Italy's most dangerous marksman. In the 2005/06 season, he found the target 31 times for La Viola which saw him become the first Italian in history to win the European Golden Shoe.

The dynamic duo strike again

Klose, meanwhile, made his mark as a young professional with 1. FC Kaiserslautern. The striker averaged double figures each season at the Fritz-Walter Stadion but it wasn't until he arrived at Werder Bremen at the age of 26 that his numbers began to surge dramatically. Like Toni, the 2005/06 season was a momentous year for the German as he ran riot in front of goal in the Bundesliga with 25 strikes to his name in just 26 games. He was the league's top scorer and German footballer of the year.

While the pair's individual journeys to Bayern's home had parallels, the same could not be said about their physicality, their traits or their style of play. Both differed tremendously but it was those stark contrasts which enveloped their success.

At 6ft 4in, Toni overlooked most of his team-mates including Klose, who himself wasn't small by any standards at 6ft. As a target man, the Italian international was a nightmare for defenders. He was strong on the ball, committed and devastating in the air, yet he also possessed the technical ability on the floor. His touch was impeccable, and it needed to be as he played off the defenders' shoulder.

Many of his goals came from the opposition defence attempting to play him offside, only for Toni to change his run just as a long searching ball was sent in his direction. He would then elegantly use his protracted frame to capture the ball in flight, whether that be by the extension of his leg or using his chest to cushion it.

The movement would have such composure that the ball would invariably drop into his path without him needing to adjust his run as he bore down on goal. If not, the forward simply knocked the ball down into his strike partner.

Klose, however, had a completely different style – one that relied on him to be intelligent with space. While he had height and certainly had no problem in the heading department, he had to be craftier in his positioning, using his pace and timing to find and exploit any gaps in the defence.

He was quick off the mark and his tireless movement saw him cover almost every blade of grass in the final third in the search for openings. He was an instinctive striker, sniffing out opportunities and then clinical in his execution.

Settling in their new surroundings, they both started in the first game of the 2007/08 season and they immediately produced. Coming up against Bundesliga newbies Hansa Rostock, the duo got off to a perfect start as they scored all the goals in the 3-0 win.

The two even combined for the opener. Klose was bearing down on goal, one-on-one with the keeper and had a great chance to score his first goal for the club but, instead, he unselfishly passed the ball to his Italian teammate, who had the simple job of tapping the ball home. Celebrating the strike, the pair ran towards the Allianz's Nordkurve embracing each other before Toni began pointing repeatedly towards Klose, gesturing to the crowd his gratitude for his team-mate's endeavours.

That moment was the beginning of a partnership that would blossom over the next two seasons. It would also be a sign of things to come, a model of the pair's connection. At the end of their first campaign in Bavaria, Toni had scored an impressive 39 goals in 46 outings – Klose had been directly involved in eight of those.

The Italian had the knack of scoring at important times as well, such as his injury time winner in the German Cup Final and not forgetting his extra-time double against Getafe to send Bayern to the UEFA Cup semi-finals.

His German partner meanwhile managed 21 goals as well as 12 assists in a season that saw Die Roten storm to the domestic treble which ensured the club returned to the Champions League. Their acquisition had been more than justified.

By their second season, both players were into their 30s and into the twilights of their careers and thus, inevitably, injuries started to arrive. Yet, despite their struggles with injuries, when they were on the pitch, they still produced at seismic rates.

A tendon injury derailed Klose's campaign but he had started the year on fire. Back in the Champions League, he had scored seven times in just eight games in the competition. Toni meanwhile struggled with his Achilles in 2009, yet he still managed 14 goals in just 25 league appearances that year. Injuries were the least of the pair's worries though.

It was the changes in management that would curtail Toni and Klose's careers at Bayern. The departure of Ottmar Hitzfeld saw former Spur Jurgen Klinsmannn take charge in 2008, but he was unable to replicate the heights that Hitzfeld had delivered the year prior. After less than a season back in Bavaria, he was replaced by Louis Van Gaal and with the Dutchman's arrival, a radical change of direction followed.

New forwards arrived in the shape of Mario Gomez and Ivica Olic while Thomas Muller was promoted from the youth academy. By December, Toni was back in Italy with Roma and while Klose remained for a further 18 months, he was used sparingly in his final year, making just 12 starts in 2010/11. But where would the German international head next? Of course, he left his homeland and followed Toni to Italy.

He signed for Lazio in the summer of 2011, with Toni then plying his trade in the north at Juventus. Despite their age, the pair continued to find the target in Serie A, maturing like fine wines in the Mediterranean sun before they both retired in 2016.

The duo never played competitively together again but, having earned their legendary status at Bayern, they continue to be closely connected to their former home. Both have assisted in an ambassadorial capacity in Munich and Toni has even turned out for the legend's side, while Klose has started his coaching career at the club, taking charge of Bayern's Under-17s.

GIRLS-ONLY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMMES

Following the success of Tottenham Hotspur Women securing promotion to the Women's Super League this season and our first ever girls-only Premier Day this summer, we are running girls-only Evening Player Development Programmes at Woodhouse College in North London and Richard Hale School in Hertfordshire.

The Evening Programmes provide a safe, secure and exceptional learning environment that creates trust, protects self-esteem and allows players to play without fear of failure or criticism.

Our girls-only Evening Programmes take place every Friday during school term-times throughout the academic year and are suitable for girls aged 5 – 12 years old. Each session is themed around a specific element of the game, including goal scoring, defending, possession, and one-v-one domination.

The technical and holistic development methods have been created by our Global Football Development and Academy coaches, which has created a framework tailored to produce the exceptional environment for learning across all ability levels. The coaches will monitor each player individually to ensure they train with players of similar abilities and ages, with the aim to progress every participant through the ability levels.

THE TOTTENHAM EXPERIENCE

EXPERT ANALYSIS

A writer for The Guardian and Independent and regular voice on talkSPORT and the 'On the Continent' and 'Football Ramble' podcasts, Andy Brassell has given his insight into each of our group opponents in this season's Champions League, starting tonight with our German visitors…

Bayern Munich

"They are in transition. The team has been ageing and they've just got to the end of their last season with Arjen Robben and Franck Ribery- one retired, one went to Italy - but what they have done is prepare for that.

"Their wingers Serge Gnabry and Kingsley Coman are excellent, both hugely important in the second half of last season and they've both started this season very well. They were both brilliant for their countries as well, Germany and France.

"Bayern started the transfer window in spectacular fashion by getting Benjamin Pavard and Lucas Hernandez in the bag, Hernandez cost pretty much twice their previous transfer record. At that point it looked like they were going to create a whole, new, young team but that didn't happen, they couldn't get further reinforcements and now Gnabry and Coman are very heavily relied upon.

"They did get Ivan Perisic and Philippe Coutinho on loan late, but they felt like opportunist signings rather than planned, and not the young players they were looking for at the start of the window like Calum Hudson-Odoi and Leroy Sane.

"On the pitch, Bayern have started okay. They are not as scary a prospect as they have been in recent years and there is still some debate over what their best team is. Robert Lewandowski scored nine goals in the first five Bundesliga games and could have had more. It looks like they are reliant on him, but if you look at Barcelona and Lionel Messi, for instance, if you have a player that good, of course you rely on him to a certain extent.

"It's interesting, when they played Cologne last week and won 4-0, Lewandowski scored the first two goals but when they got a penalty, rather than go for a hat-trick – and he is the penalty taker – he gave it to Coutinho, so he could get off the mark. He's been a good team player.

"One issue Bayern do have is they can't decide where to play Joshua Kimmich. There is a school of thought that says he should be at the base of midfield, but another that says if they don't play him at right-back, they really miss him there. At the moment, if Kimmich plays in midfield, Pavard will play right-back and they bring in another centre-half like Niklas Sule, Jerome Boateng or maybe Lucas Hernandez when David Alaba is fit again.

"For me, the biggest concern with Bayern, if you look at putting together their best team, is do they have to play both Coutinho and Perisic? I'd say not. We'll see if either or both start against Spurs tonight."

What do our German footballing connections stir in the memory of club historian John Fennelly? We find out.

PAUL STALTERI

Canadian international full-back Paul Stalteri had a good grounding in the Bundesliga and returned there when he left Spurs in December 2008.

Born in Ontario, he had just started out as a professional with Toronto Lynx when spotted by Werder Bremen, joining the club in November 1997, and helping them to the League and Cup double in 2004.

He moved to Spurs the following July, making his debut at Portsmouth. He is best remembered by Spurs fans for his late winner at West Ham in 2007, going on as substitute to earn us a thrilling 4-3 triumph. He left us for Borussia Monchengladbach the following year.

Stalteri won a then record 84 full caps for Canada, many as captain of the side.

MARTIN PETERS

England international midfielder Martin Peters was a regular goalscorer as we battled our way to the 1974 UEFA Cup Final.

Our World Cup winner – also on target against West Germany in that 1966 Wembley triumph – netted twice for Spurs in the first round as we beat Swiss side Grasshoppers 9-2 on aggregate.

He scored at the Lane when we knocked out Aberdeen and then bagged a double with trademark headers at home to Dinamo Tbilisi before we took on FC Cologne in the quarter-finals.

Peters and Chris McGrath shared the goals as we returned from Cologne with a 2-1 advantage and Martin ghosted in to hit the net again as we triumphed 3-0 in the return.

That set up a semi-final with Lokomotive Leipzig where 74,000 fans looked on as Peters helped us to a 2-1 away advantage that we turned into a 4-1 aggregate at the Lane.

Unfortunately, he lost that goalscoring touch in the final as Feyenoord grabbed a 2-2 draw in the first leg in N17 and completed the job by a 2-0 margin in Rotterdam.

CHRIS JONES

After a mid-table finish in Division One in 1976, Terry Neill quit as manager, leaving his former assistant Keith Burkinshaw to pick up the reins. And Keith's first job was to take the squad on a pre-season tour to what was then West Germany in a five-game sequence that brought mixed results.

But it was a good trip for our Jersey-born striker Chris Jones who notched five goals, starting with a brace as we opened the series with a 3-1 win at Vfl Osnabruck on July 24. He also scored in a 3-1 loss to 1FC Cologne before claiming another two in our 2-1 success over KSV Baunatal.

4 YOUNG-PYO LEE

Young-Pyo Lee went on an international journey when he left South Korea and subsequently played for clubs in Holland, England, Germany, Saudi Arabia and Canada.

Along the way, he also won 127 senior caps for his country and helped South Korea reach the semi-finals of the 2002 World Cup, having played in the Sydney Olympic Games just two years before.

An attacking left-back with great pace, he started out with Anyang Cheetahs before following national boss Gus Hiddink to PSV Eindhoven in 2003 where he twice helped the club to the Eredivisie title.

Lee switched to Tottenham in August 2005, where his sharp application made him an instant success. He left us for Borussia Dortmund after three seasons.

5 BERT MIDDLEMISS

Winger Bert Middlemiss scored a hat-trick when we kicked off our 1914 tour of Germany, Italy and Switzerland with a 6-3 triumph at Hanover. We remained unbeaten on the nine-match trip, scoring 34 goals, including six without reply against tonight's opponents Bayern Munich, this time Harry Sparrow bagging three.

We failed to win at Nuremberg where Sparrow netted in the 1-1 draw before a brace from Bert Bliss saw us tie 2-2 at Furth in Bavaria.

6 STEFFEN IVERSEN

Despite a slender lead provided by Steffen Iversen's penalty, we travelled to 1FC Kaiserslautern in confidence for the return leg of our UEFA Cup second round tie in November 1999.

We had forced numerous chances to increase that margin at the Lane but had to settle for Iversen's 33rd minute spot kick after goalkeeper Andreas Reinke felled David Ginola who had been excellent on the night.

Manager George Graham subsequently left out Ginola for the reunion where two very late goals saw us lose 2-0.

8 TED BIRNIE

Unusually for the time, Ted Birnie had two spells coaching in Germany. The Sunderland-born half-back joined us from Chelsea in July 1910, having also played for Newcastle United and Crystal Palace. But within a year he switched to German lower tier side Mulheim as player-coach where he also served as secretary! He returned home to England to move into coaching and management, spent 12 years in charge at Southend United, and then went back to work in Germany.

7 PAUL MILLER

We also faced German opposition in season 1981-82 when we met Eintracht Frankfurt in the quarter-finals of the European Cup Winners' Cup.

Having hit top form in the first round against Ajax, we struggled against Dundalk with Garth Crooks scoring home and away as we scraped through with a single goal advantage.

We knew that Eintracht would be more formidable and so they proved at the Lane where young reserve goalkeeper Joachim Juriens kept us at bay. That was until the hour mark when Paul Miller moved into attack and fired home from 20 yards.

Micky Hazard added a second ahead of a 2-1 defeat in the return where Glenn Hoddle hit our decisive reply. Barcelona narrowly beat us in the subsequent semi and, when we returned to the competition the following season, Bayern Munich knocked us out in the second round.

OBITUARIES

We were sorry to hear of the passing of the following Spurs supporters:

Ray Martin, a lifelong Spurs fan who sadly passed away on 18 August. Ray, from Kent, was Spurs through and through, experiencing many great moments at The Lane during a lifetime following the club. He will be sadly missed by many, especially his family and close friends.

Brian Eric White, who sadly passed away aged 72 on 31 August. He spent his early years living near White Hart Lane, often attending matches. In later life he emigrated to Brisbane, Australia, but followed Spurs from afar, being delighted when he could attend their Australian Tour in 2016. Last year he was able to visit the new stadium which was near completion. He is sadly missed by wife Martha, sons Nick and Andy and grandchildren (all Spurs fans), and all the family.

We would like to extend our condolences to their famillies and friends at this sad time.

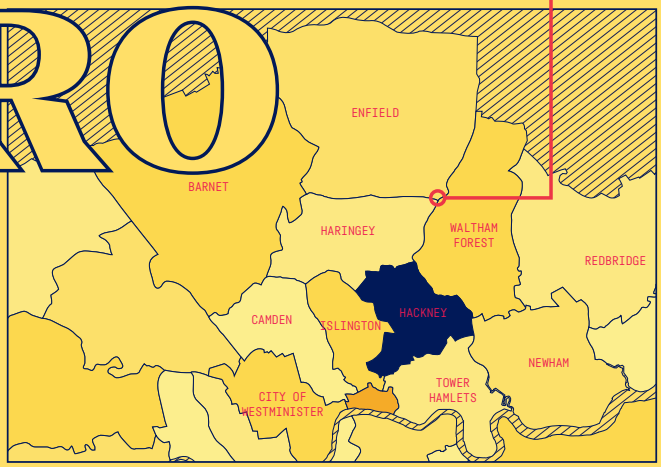
LOCAL HERO

PLAYER NAME:
HARRY GILBERG
D.O.B: 29.06.23
POSITION: FORWARD
LEAGUE APPEARANCES: 2
BORN IN: TOTTENHAM



Looking back on players spotted by Spurs playing locally in schools' football – and who went on to play in our first team. John Fennelly details the career of Harry Gilberg.

Forward Harry Gilberg had his opportunity to impress new Spurs manager Arthur Rowe when we toured Germany and Belgium in May 1950.

He had already made his debut at Newcastle United more than three years before under previous manager Joe Hulme's stewardship, but chances were few for the Tottenham-born front-runner, so he had to take his senior opportunities in friendly games.

On this trip we played five matches in nine days with the diminutive Gilberg leading the line in four of them – and scoring in three.

Four of the games were against German sides. We beat Hanover Arminia 3-0 and then Harry scored when we beat Tennis-Borussia 2-0 in Berlin. He missed our 5-2 triumph over the Wacker Club, again in Berlin, but hit the target once more in our subsequent 4-0 win at Borussia Dortmund.

Our only defeat came in Antwerp when we went down 2-1 to Royal Beerschott where Len Duquemin netted our reply.

Returning to White Hart Lane, Harry must have had high hopes of making further progress – despite the strong competition for places up front. We had just been promoted back Division One that season and would go on to lift the title the following year.

But he was struck down by a series of injuries that side-lined him for much of that successful campaign and, when he was fit again, decided to try his luck elsewhere. His transfer request was granted and Gilberg crossed London to Division Two outfit Queens Park Rangers in August 1951.

Spurs in 1949 with Harry Gilberg in the second row, fourth player from the right

He stayed at Loftus Road for 15 months before moving on to Brighton and Hove Albion where he enjoyed a solid four years with the Division Three (South) side, then managed by former Spurs centre-forward Billy Lane. The latter had also been born in Tottenham and possessed the initials WHL!

Sadly, Gilberg suffered another bad injury at Brighton, forcing him to retire in 1955. He moved back to this area and settled in Broxbourne but sadly died while on holiday in Torquay in 1994 at the age of 71.

We had spotted Harry playing locally when he represented Tottenham and Middlesex in schools' football. He subsequently played for Tottenham Juniors and joined our groundstaff in June 1937, when his formal education ended at the age of 14. However, he continued to train as a carpenter and joiner when he signed amateur forms at White Hart Lane two years later.

Like so many of his generation, Harry lost a large segment of his playing career to the war. He played for Walthamstow Avenue and our nursery club Northfleet but was re-called to Tottenham to appear for us in a London War League match at Watford in December 1941, which we won 2-1.

He stayed in the side for our subsequent home 1-1 draw with Aldershot but most of his football during the conflict saw him appear as a guest for Southend United and Charlton Athletic. Gilberg joined the RAF as a wireless operator and air gunner, returning to our full-time staff and signing as a professional in September 1944.

He versatility was one of his greatest assets as he could also play on the wing or at inside-forward and even half-back. And he needed to move around because of the quality we possessed in attack at the time. He worked hard on and off the field to try to establish a regular first team place but remained very much a squad player scoring regularly for our Reserves and 'A' team.

Following his debut at Newcastle – a single goal Division Two defeat – he then had to wait more than a year for another chance when he helped us beat Millwall 3-2 at White Hart Lane in March 1948. It was almost another year before he received his next senior call – playing in a 3-0 defeat to Arsenal at Highbury in the third round of the FA Cup.

Yet he stilll had high hopes when the more adventurous and attack-minded Rowe returned to Tottenham after establishing a reputation for innovation and enterprise while in charge at Chelmsford City. Sadly, Gilberg's misfortune with injury decided otherwise.

NOAH'S ARK OPENS NEW HOSPICE BUILDING FOR NORTH AND CENTRAL LONDON

- Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan joins representatives from the Club to open Noah's Ark Children's Hospice's new home
- The Ark is a new children's hospice building which will support babies, children and young people with life-limiting or life-threatening conditions living in North and Central London and Hertsmere
- Noah's Ark Children's Hospice has been the Club's official charity partner since 2016

Last Thursday, Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan joined representatives from the Club, including captains Hugo Lloris and Jenna Schillaci, to open The Ark - a new children's hospice building for North and Central London and Hertsmere.

The Club's official charity partner since 2016, Noah's Ark Children's Hospice provides support for babies, children and young people with life-limiting or life-threatening conditions and their families living in North London.

The Ark will complement the charity's 'Hospice at Home' service and enable Noah's Ark to increase the scale and quality of its delivery.

The building, which is shaped like a butterfly - the symbol of the children's hospice movement - has been built on a 7.5 acre nature reserve in Barnet and will provide a relaxing space for children and their families to connect with others facing similar challenges.

The hospice will offer a range of children's palliative care services including a sensory room, sensory garden, drop-in facility for families to come and meet, overnight stays for children and families and after death care. Each room overlooks the nature reserve and has been designed to create a home like environment rather than feeling like a hospital.

Accompanied by Jeremy Isaacs CBE, Noah's Ark Chair of Trustees and Ru Watkins, Noah's Ark Chief Executive, the Mayor and representatives from Tottenham Hotspur were given a tour of the new hospice building before meeting families who have been supported by the charity.

One family who have been helped by Noah's Ark is Rose Charles and her two grandchildren. Ben had a rare genetic condition and died in 2014. Rose continues to care for Ben's sister Sophie who has the same diagnosis.

Rose said: "End-of-life care at a local children's hospice wasn't available for Ben, my lovely grandson who died at home. That's why I wanted things to be different for my granddaughter Sophie. I dreamt of this facility being built in time for Sophie and it's a joy to witness the care that this place will provide to her. It will make a huge difference to our lives."

Tottenham Hotspur's partnership with Noah's Ark Children's Hospice has seen the Club help raise awareness of the work of the charity and drive the recruitment of volunteers via high profile events and the support of First Team players, including the squad's donation of an hour's wages to help raise funds to build The Ark. We shall be dedicating our home north London derby against Arsenal in April to supporting the charity.

Donna-Maria Cullen, Executive Director at Tottenham Hotspur, said: "We are so very proud to be a partner of Noah's Ark. We have huge admiration for the staff, volunteers, brave families and children. The Ark truly is the home that the charity and those it supports deserves – providing first-class facilities to further enhance the vital delivery of care and support. The Club, its staff, players and fans are humbled to have played a small part on this journey."

Ru Watkins, Chief Executive, Noah's Ark Children's Hospice, said: "It's fantastic to be standing here today as we officially declare The Ark open. We have aimed to fulfil the needs of our families and create an environment where their children can receive the care and attention they require in a calm and relaxed space.

"This iconic building has been designed to ensure children and their siblings can be at one with nature and enjoy time together away from the family home. I would like to extend my thanks to our local community and generous partners who have enabled us to complete The Ark, allowing more sick children and their families to receive much needed support."

Sadiq Khan, The Mayor of London, said: "Noah's Ark has been a beacon of light for the children and families it serves, so I'm delighted that they have a brand-new home. The Ark will ensure that children across north and central London receive the best possible care and support. It's a children's hospice that has been built by the community for the community and is a fantastic example of what can be achieved when Londoners work together.

"Tottenham Hotspur have been the Official Charity Partner of Noah's Ark since 2016 and have been incredibly generous. They have not just one but two captains here today in Hugo and Jenna. This is just one example of the generosity of Spurs. They should be extremely proud of the work they have done in making their team such a force both on and off the pitch. Spurs have probably the best football stadium in the world and now we are opening the best home for our children in the world as well."

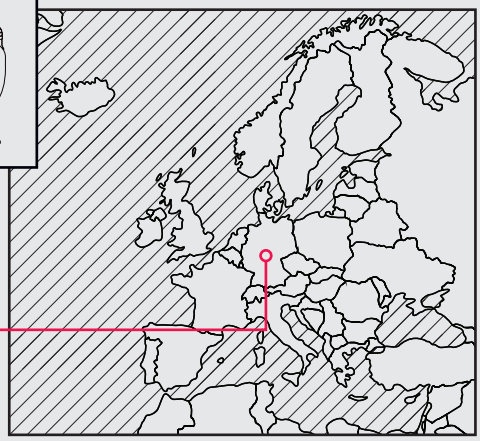
EURO ZONE



GERMANY
Capital: Berlin
Language: German

Ahead of UEFA Euro 2020, Andy Greeves offers the lowdown on various nations hoping to appear at the European Championships as it celebrates its 60th anniversary. This evening he takes a look at Joachim Low's Germany.

FORM GUIDE

Germany's UEFA Euro 2020 qualifying campaign began with a memorable 3-2 victory in the Netherlands on 24 March this year. Joachim Low's side led 2-0 at half-time at the Johan Cruyff ArenA in Amsterdam through goals from Leroy Sane and Serge Gnabry prior to the hosts drawing level in the second-half. With less than 60 seconds of normal time remaining though, Nico Schulz scored to secure all three points for Die Mannschaft.

Home and away wins over Estonia – which included an 8-0 thrashing of the Baltic state in Mainz on 11 June – followed prior to Netherlands' 4-2 victory over Germany in Hamburg on 6 September. Three days later, Low's side returned to winning ways with a 2-0 triumph over Northern Ireland in Belfast in a game which featured goals from Marcel Halstenberg and Gnabry.

KEY PLAYER

Former Arsenal winger Serge Gnabry has been in a rich vein of form for club and country in 2019. The Stuttgart-born player has netted five times in five matches for Germany this calendar year with home and away strikes against the Netherlands, a brace in the 8-0 victory over Estonia and a goal in the aforementioned clash with Northern Ireland. He has scored nine times in 10 appearances for his country overall.

Gnabry joined Bayern Munich from Werder Bremen in 2017. He scored 13 goals in 42 appearances for the Bavarians last season as they won both the Bundesliga title and the DFB Pokal.

SPURS CONNECTION

We have faced eight different German sides in European competition, including 1.FC Koln, who we beat 5-1 on aggregate in the UEFA Cup quarter-final in March 1974. Bill Nicholson's side beat Lokomotive Leipzig of the former East Germany 4-1 on aggregate in the next round to set-up a two-legged final with Dutch giants Feyenoord.

Eintracht Frankfurt provided our opposition in the third round of the European Cup Winners' Cup in 1981/82. After we won 2-0 at White Hart Lane on 3 March, 1982, Eintracht levelled the aggregate score in the second leg before Glenn Hoddle's late strike put us through to the next round as we triumphed 3-2 overall.

Our first meetings with Bayern Munich took placed during the 1982/83 Season as we were beaten 5-2 on aggregate in a European Cup Winners' Cup second round tie by the Bavarian side. We gained revenge the following campaign, with a 2-1 aggregate triumph over Bayern in the UEFA Cup third round en route to winning the competition in 1983/84.

We faced another German side in the shape of 1. FC Kaiserslautern in 1999/2000, going down to a 2-1 aggregate defeat in a UEFA Cup second clash. Dimitar Berbatov's strike against his old club gave us a 1-0 triumph over Bayer Leverkusen in the UEFA Cup on 23 November, 2006 while we faced Werder Bremen in Group A of the UEFA Champions League in 2010/11, drawing 2-2 at the Weserstadion and winning 3-0 at the Lane.

We have faced German opposition for the past four seasons in European competition. We were beaten 5-1 on aggregate by Borussia Dortmund in the UEFA Europa League round of 16 in 2015/16 before facing Bayer Leverkusen in Group E of the Champions League the following campaign. We drew 0-0 at the BayArena before losing 1-0 to at Wembley Stadium. Impressive home and away wins over Borussia Dortmund helped us top Group H of the Champions League in 2017/18 while our incredible run to the final of the competition last season included a 4-0 aggregate success against the same opponents in the round of 16.

Max Seeburg, featured on page 15-17 of tonight's programme, was the first German to play a competitive fixture for us back in 1908. National team legend and former Germany Head Coach Jurgen Klinsmann scored 38 goals in 68 appearances during two spells with us between 1994 and 1998. Klinsmann's former international colleague Steffen Freund made 131 appearances for us between 1998 and 2003 while fellow German teammate Christian Ziege scored 10 goals in 55 matches for us between 2001 and 2004. More recently, Erkelenz-born midfielder Lewis Holtby scored three goals in 42 games for us between 2013 and 2015.

EURO HISTORY

Germany are three-time winners of the UEFA European Championships, triumphing in 1972, 1980 and 1996. Die Mannschaft are also three-time runners up in the competition, reaching the final in 1976, 1992 and 2008. Having previously hosted the tournament back in 1988, Germany will stage the 17th edition of the championships in 2024.

WE'VE MET BEFORE...

This evening will be the 10th time we have played Bayern Munich in our history, starting all the way back in 1914. Jon Rayner delves into the history books to find out more.

Less than a week after the conclusion of our Division One campaign of 1913/14, we embarked on an end-of-season tour to Europe, during which we faced Bayern Munich for the first time in our history.

The trip took us to Switzerland, Italy and Germany, the third time we had visited the latter nation following tours in 1911 and 1912 but we hadn't yet crossed swords with the Munich side.

Bayern were only founded in 1900 and were still in their formative amateur years at the time. They had encountered English sides before though, with Sunderland the first visitors to their Leopoldstrasse stadium in May, 1909. The Wearsiders won 5-2 and the following May, Blackburn Rovers ran out 7-0 winners, while a year before our visit, Bayern lost 9-1 to Middlesbrough. In those days, the German side was no match for the professional outfits from England.

Our own Division One season in 1913/14 was one of disappointment as we finished fourth from bottom under Peter McWilliam's guidance. But we remained unbeaten throughout our European trip, starting with a 6-3 win over Hanover and a 1-1 draw with Nuremberg, before we headed to Munich for a first-ever meeting with Bayern.

In charge of the German side at the time was William Townley, well-known as a player in England for his exploits with Blackburn Rovers, scoring the first-ever FA Cup Final hat-trick in their 1890 triumph over The Wednesday. He had already coached Karlsruher FV and SpVgg Furth before taking over at Bayern in December, 1913.

As for our game, The Herald newspaper reported that the weather was wet and cold, rain fell all morning and there were pools of water all over the pitch. But the conditions appeared to suit Spurs who, according to the report, gave a fine exhibition of football.

We were comfortable 6-0 winners on the day with the game most notable for Harry Sparrow's hat-trick and a penalty converted by goalkeeper John 'Tiny' Joyce! Jimmy Banks was also on target.

We stayed in Germany and played out a 2-2 draw with Furth before games in Italy and Switzerland – beating Internazionale (5-0), Zurich (6-0) and St Gallen (3-0). It was then back to Germany for two more victories, against Pforzheim (4-0) and Stuttgart (1-0).

It was over 50 years before we next met Bayern Munich, but still not on home soil as we faced the German side twice during our summer tour of 1966.

Despite the upcoming World Cup in England, both teams crossed the Atlantic for lengthy tours. We left London on 19 May on a direct flight to Bermuda and played a match in the capital Hamilton before further games in Canada, USA and Mexico, including two games against recently-crowned Scottish champions Celtic – in San Francisco and Vancouver.

We rounded off the trip with the two matches against Bayern, who themselves had flown from Munich on 6 June and spent the entire month travelling and playing matches across the region. They too played Celtic and drew 2-2 in San Francisco on 8 June.

The first match was in Detroit on the evening of 17 June although our travelling party had a prior engagement during the day. At the invitation of the Minnesota Mining Company, we paid a visit to a race track to examine a composite surface which was thought to have possibilities for football pitches but which, when tried out by our players, was found not to be practical as a substitute for grass!

The game itself saw an even first half but we took control after the interval and ran out 3-0 winners thanks to goals from Keith Weller, Frank Saul and Terry Venables.

3:0-Sieg von Tottenham gegen Bayern

Detroit (AZ) — Auf den ersten Sieg folgte die erste Niederlage der Bayern in den USA. Am Freitagabend unterlag der deutsche Fußball-Pokalsieger in Detroit den Tottenham Hotspurs mit 0:3 (0:0). Dabei zeigten die Münchner ein recht gutes Spiel und hatten vor allem nach der Pause im Feldspiel deutliche Vorteile. Doch Torchancen waren gegen die starke Londoner Ge- der nur uses traf.

Our 1914 travelling party pose for the camera in Munich

Just two days later we returned to Chicago, having spent a couple of days there on the shores of Lake Michigan prior to going to Detroit, for our 11th and final game of the tour.

A rematch with Bayern was played at the famous Soldier Field stadium and in temperatures of over 80 degrees, which played its part in a less than entertaining affair. The Germans took the lead through Gerd Muller but we equalised with four minutes remaining when Derek Possee's corner was converted by Ron Henry (right).

We spent the next two days relaxing in Chicago before heading home on 21 June, while Bayern played four more matches and didn't return to Germany until the start of July. Their travelling party included players such as Franz Beckenbauer and Sepp Maier, who were in Germany's World Cup squad which kicked off their tournament on 12 July!

Phil Beal with Bayern greats Gerd Muller and Franz Beckenbauer at his testimonial

Phil Beal had been associated with the club for 13 years and had featured over 350 times for the first team, so his testimonial match against Bayern Munich was fully deserved when it came around in 1973.

The defender signed amateur forms for Spurs in 1960, became a professional with us in 1962 and made his senior debut away to Aston Villa on 16 September, 1963. He was a stalwart of Bill Nicholson's side throughout the next decade, always a popular player with the supporters and Bayern's team of superstars was a great opponent for his testimonial.

A crowd of 19,150 turned up for Bayern's first-ever visit to White Hart Lane which ended 2-2. Although an exhibition game, it was still played to a high standard by two teams who were packed full of internationals.

Alan Gilzean gave us an early lead before a slick header by John Pratt from a cross by Ray Evans doubled our advantage. Just before half-time Rainer Zobel netted with a well-placed shot to the right of Pat Jennings, while Bayern levelled it up late in the game through Franz Roth.

It wasn't until 1982 that we finally met Bayern Munich in competitive action when we were paired in the second round of the European Cup Winners' Cup.

We had comfortably seen off part-timers Coleraine 7-0 on aggregate in the first round, while Bayern scraped past Torpedo Moscow on away goals after a 1-1 draw in Russia. By this stage though, they were three-time European champions after back-to-back success in 1974, 1975 and 1976 and were always going to be tough opponents for us.

But in the first leg at White Hart Lane, we completely dominated the first half and deserved more than the 1-1 draw at the final whistle. Steve Archibald put us ahead after just three minutes and if it wasn't for some heroics from Jean-Marie Pfaff in the visitors' goal, the tie could have been over by half-time.

However, Bayern came out strong after the interval and when young defender Gary O'Reilly sliced his clearance, Paul Breitner slammed home the equaliser, leaving the tie up for grabs ahead of the Munich return.

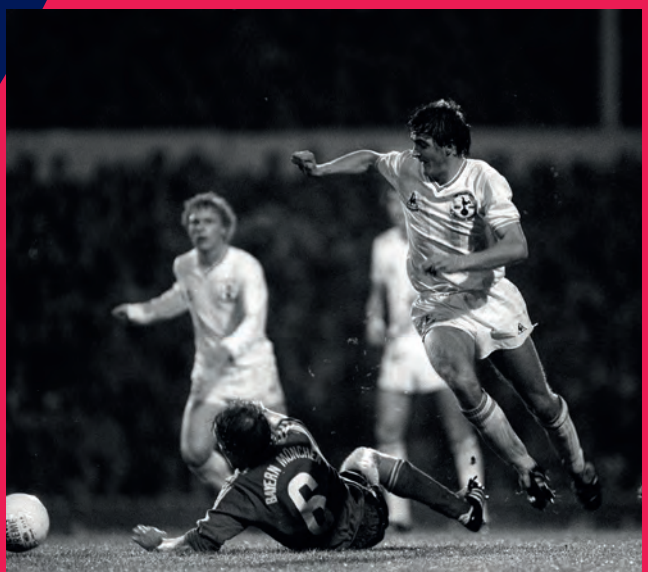
Action from our Cup Winners' Cup clash at the Lane



Any hopes of progressing to the third round ended in the fog at Bayern's Olympic Stadium, in a game which arguably could have been called off, so poor was the visibility.

According to reports, the identity of the goalscorers was only known to the crowd when their names appeared on the electronic scoreboard! The home side went ahead through Dieter Hoeness in the 18th minute and extended their lead seven minutes after the break when Udo Horsmann made it 2-0.

Breitner scored his second goal of the tie in the 73rd minute and although Chris Hughton pulled one back six minutes later, Karl-Heinz Rummenigge netted almost immediately to confirm our exit from the competition.

We didn't have to wait long to exact our revenge on Bayern however, after the teams were drawn to face each other again just 12 months later, albeit this time in the UEFA Cup.

And this time we were in Germany for the first leg – with no fog – and although we lost again, it was felt that the margin of defeat was certainly one that we could overturn in the return at the Lane.

Both teams enjoyed huge first round victories as we swept past Drogheda United 14-0 on aggregate while Bayern beat Anorthosis Famagusta 11-0. We then beat Johan Cruyff's Feyenoord and Bayern knocked out PAOK although they needed a penalty shoot-out to do so after two goalless draws.

An entertaining game in Munich saw both sides have chances but the match was ultimately settled five minutes from time when Michael Rummenigge, brother of Karl-Heinz, cut inside and lashed a shot past Ray Clemence.

Delight for Mark Falco following his late winner against Bayern at the Lane in 1983

A crowd of 41,977 packed into White Hart Lane on a chilly December night to witness a superb performance as we duly overturned the first leg deficit.

We were excellent from the off, with Glenn Hoddle pulling the strings in midfield and creating the first chance for Mark Falco, who could only hit the post. Steve Perryman, Hoddle, Archibald and Gary Stevens all went close as we dominated proceedings but at half-time it was still goalless and Bayern held the upperhand.

Five minutes after the interval though, it all changed. Hoddle floated a free-kick towards Graham Roberts who headed the ball down into the danger zone and Archibald got the vital touch to poke the ball home.

As the game went on, the tension built but the decisive moment came in the 86th minute when Falco hit the woodwork before ramming home the rebound to secure our place in the quarter-finals.

It would prove to be a crucial moment that season, as we went on to defeat FK Austria, Hajduk Split and Anderlecht to lift the trophy here in N17.

FROM PITCH TO BOARDROOM

Captaining West Germany in the 1982 World Cup Final against Dino Zoff's Italy

ANDY GREEVES SPEAKS EXCLUSIVELY TO BAYERN MUNICH CHAIRMAN AND THE CLUB'S SECOND HIGHEST GOAL SCORER OF ALL-TIME, THE LEGENDARY KARL-HEINZ 'KALLE' RUMMENIGGE.

As both a player and a director, Karl-Heinz Rummenigge is one of the most significant figures in the illustrious history of FC Bayern Munich.

Rummenigge's association with the Bavarian giants began back in the summer of 1974, when the then 18-year-old striker joined the reigning Bundesliga and European champions from amateur side Borussia Lippstadt. Over the next ten years 'Kalle', as he is known by Bayern fans, went on to score 217 goals in 422 appearances, winning two European Cups, two Bundesliga titles, two German Cups and the Intercontinental Cup in the process.

After spells with Internazionale and Swiss club Servette, Rummenigge retired from playing in 1989 before returning to Bayern two years later to take up a post as the club's Vice-President alongside fellow legendary ex-player Franz Beckenbauer. He was then appointed to his current role as Chairman of the football department following the restructuring of the club as a joint-stock company in 2002.

"I can still remember receiving Bayern's offer to join them when I was 18," smiles Rummenigge, as he reflects back on his playing career. "It was a big surprise to me. I come from a town called Lippstadt, which is about 600km from Munich, so I never could have imagined that this kind of opportunity would arise.

"Joining such a great club as Bayern Munich was incredible. A club that, at that time, had players like Sepp Maier, Franz Beckenbauer, Gerd Muller and Uli Hoeness. I jumped at the chance of signing for them."

Rummenigge made a somewhat auspicious start to his Bayern career, making his debut in a 6-0 away defeat to Kickers Offenbach on 24 August, 1974. His first goal for the club arrived in his fourth appearance for them, a 6-3 victory over 1.FC Koln at the Olympiastadion.

"I scored the final goal that afternoon," he remembers. "When I left Lippstadt, nobody thought it would be possible for me to play regularly for Bayern Munich. So, achieving an early landmark - scoring my first goal - was the source of a lot of pride for me. I can remember buying lots of copies of the newspaper with the match reports in the following day to send to my parents!"

Rummenigge featured in four European Cup matches for Bayern during his debut season with the club, including their 2-0 victory over Saint-Etienne in the semi-final, second leg. He was an unused substitute for the final itself as goals from Franz Roth and Muller saw the Germans to a 2-0 triumph over Leeds United in Paris on 28 May, 1975. Twelve months later, he started as Bayern beat Saint-Etienne 1-0 in the European Cup Final at Hampden Park.

"That European triumph in 1976 was huge, not least because it heralded the start of my international career," says Rummenigge, who went on to score 45 goals in 95 matches for his country between 1976 and 1986. "I made my senior debut for West Germany (against Wales on 6 October, 1976) shortly after winning the European Cup. I played regularly for the national team from then on and I got to appear at the 1978 World Cup in Argentina, the 1982 tournament in Spain and at Mexico 1986."

Karl-Heinz scored 62 goals in his first five seasons at Bayern Munich. Then, in 1979/80, he netted 26 times in 34 league matches as he won the first of his two Bundesliga titles with the Bavarians – the second coming in 1980/81 as he managed 29 goals in 34 league games.

"That (1979/80) was probably my best season in football," comments Rummenigge. "As well as winning the title, I was the division's top goal scorer, I won the European Championships with the national team that summer too and received the first of my two Ballon d'Or awards."

Rummenigge is one of only 10 players to win the Ballon d'Or on more than one occasion – with his other title coming in 1981. He was also runner-up to Kevin Keegan in 1979.

"I followed in the footsteps of the likes of Gerd Muller and Franz Beckenbauer to win the award," he reflects. "They had been my footballing heroes growing up, so you can imagine what it meant to win the award myself. My success came after Kevin Keegan had won the Ballon d'Or two times in a row following his incredible performances at Hamburg."

Rummenigge won the German Cup with Bayern in 1982, which saw his club qualify for the 1982/83 European Cup Winners' Cup competition. The Bavarians also competed in the UEFA Cup in 1983/84 - the striker's final season at the club, when he won the German Cup for a second time. In both those seasons, we faced Bayern, who triumphed 5-2 on aggregate in a Cup Winners' Cup second round tie in 1982 before our 2-1 aggregate success in a UEFA Cup third round tie en route to winning the competition in 1983/84.

"THAT EUROPEAN TRIUMPH IN 1976 WAS HUGE, NOT LEAST BECAUSE IT HERALDED THE START OF MY INTERNATIONAL CAREER."

"They were tough matches," recalls Karl-Heinz, who featured for Bayern in all four games against us. "I remember Steve Archibald from those matches… a really talented striker who went on to sign for Barcelona. Glenn Hoddle was another tremendous player… someone I came up against for the national team on a couple of occasions too.

"Around that time, English clubs tended to have the upper hand over the German sides in Europe, so it was nice to overturn that history a bit with our European Cup Winners' Cup victory over Spurs. The second leg of that tie in Munich was a strange experience. There was heavy fog and it was hard to see. I can remember the Spurs players asking the Hungarian referee to stop the game because of the conditions but we wanted to continue because we were playing well that night and went on to win 4-1!

"Having enjoyed our success the previous year, it was Tottenham's turn in 1983/84 as they beat us 2-1 on aggregate and obviously went on to win the UEFA Cup that season. I really enjoyed visiting White Hart Lane – a real monument of football in my opinion. Now, I'm excited to visit the new Tottenham Hotspur Stadium, which I have heard so many good things about but have never visited until this Champions League match."

After departing Bayern in the summer of 1984, Rummenigge scored 42 goals in 107 appearances for Inter until a move to Servette in 1987, for whom he netted 34 times in 64 matches. Two years after retiring from playing in 1989, he returned to Bayern Munich to become vice-president of the club.

"At that time, Bayern were having some problems from a sporting point of view," he says. "We were about 12th in the Bundesliga at the time, which is disappointing for club the size of Bayern Munich. Both myself and (fellow vice-president) Franz Beckenbauer were able to bring some football knowledge and experience to the club and within a few seasons, we won the Bundesliga in 1994 and we won the UEFA Cup in 1996.

"I learnt so much during this time. I became an international ambassador for the club and I focused on external affairs. It helped me in my future roles as elected chairman of Bayern Munich and also in my role as chairman of the European Club Association (2008 to 2017)."

Following the corporate restructuring of Bayern, Rummenigge became chairman of the football side of the organisation in February 2002.

"The major task from the outset was how we financed the construction of the Allianz Arena (which has been Bayern's home since 2005). The stadium project was hugely successful and has been key to allowing Bayern Munich to compete at the top level of European football. I believe the new Tottenham Hotspur Stadium will benefit Spurs in a similar way."

The footballing highlight of Rummenigge's time as chairman came in 2012/13 as Bayern became the first German club to complete the 'treble', winning their domestic league title, main cup competition and the UEFA Champions League in the same season. Having already won the Bundesliga for a 23rd time, the Bavarians completed the second leg of their success with a 2-1 victory over rivals Borussia Dortmund in the Champions League Final at Wembley Stadium on 25 May, 2013 before beating VfB Stuttgart 3-2 in the DFL-Pokal Final the following week.

"What made that season even more special was it came on the back of the heartache of the previous year," comments Rummenigge. "In 2011/12, we finished second in the Bundesliga and lost to Borussia Dortmund and Chelsea in the finals of the German Cup and the Champions League respectively. The club went from a state of shock in 2012 to jubilance in 2013!"

Since then, Bayern have won every edition of the Bundesliga and have claimed the German Cup on three separate occasions. They have also reached the semi-finals of the Champions League in four of the last six seasons. Any future successes in the next few years will be particularly special for Rummenigge, who has announced he will step down from his role as chairman in December 2021 to be replaced by another Bayern great, Oliver Kahn.

"When I step down, I will be 66 and I will have been chairman for 20 years so I think it is right to let someone else have that opportunity then," he say. "We have already decided that Oliver Khan will become the new chairman and I feel comfortable the club will be in excellent hands under him.

"I'll still be a regular at the Allianz Arena long after 2021. I have always loved football and I have a wonderful family that allows me to indulge in that passion. Bayern are my main football love of course but I love the sport as a whole. The passion and the emotion involved in the game is something special and it affects the lives of so many millions of people around the world. I am grateful to the game for the opportunities it has provided me with."

This evening marks our first competitive meeting with Bayern Munich in almost 36 years since we faced Rummenigge and co during our triumphant UEFA Cup campaign of 1983/84. More recently, we met the Bavarians in the final of this summer's Audi Cup at the Allianz Arena as we beat them 6-5 in a penalty shootout after a 2-2 draw in normal time.

"WE HAVE A GREAT RELATIONSHIP WITH TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR. I LIKE THEM AS A CLUB. THEY HAVE A FANTASTIC CHAIRMAN IN DANIEL LEVY AND MAURICIO POCHETTINO HAS DONE A GREAT JOB AS MANAGER."

"This summer was one of the best Audi Cup tournaments we have hosted in the 10 years the competition has existed," adds Karl-Heinz. "The final was highly entertaining but I think it was a shock outcome with an English team beating a German team on penalties!

"We have a great relationship with Tottenham Hotspur. I like them as a club. They have a fantastic chairman in Daniel Levy and Mauricio Pochettino has done a great job as manager. Quite often when we play our match on a Saturday and Tottenham play on Sunday, I will tune in and watch them. They had an incredible season last season reaching the final of the Champions League and I am convinced this will be a highly successful season for them also."

18 ↓ 82

Continuing our new Q&A feature for the new season – using the year of the Club's formation as inspiration – as we ask our players to choose 18 lifestyle questions from a selection of 82. This evening it's the turn of our Belgian defender Jan Vertonghen…

1. What is the most important lesson life has taught you?

Jan: "To enjoy every day."

2 When was the last time you cried?

Jan: "Like a proper cry? It was probably the day my daughter was born."

3 Who is sorting out the playlist at the moment?

Jan: "It must be Harry Kane."

4 How do you like your eggs?

Jan: "Scrambled, not too much cheese, a bit of avocado, sour dough toast, pepper and salt."

5 What are you always asked in interviews?

Jan: "Who is the best striker I've ever faced."

6 Did you every appear in a play at school?

Jan: "Yes I did, when I was about seven or eight, and then again in Holland when I was 16. That was Midsummer Night's Dream, Shakespeare's play. I'm not sure who I played, maybe Demetrius."

7 What reminds you of home?

Jan: "I'm an extremely nostalgic person, so everything… family, my brother, my mum's food, sitting on a bike, walking down a street in my home town (Tielrode, near Sint Niklaas, Belgium), playing board games, TV shows which I watch now on YouTube, these all remind me of my childhood."

8 In which TV show would you like a walk-on part?

Jan: "It's called 'FC de Kampioenen' and it's my favourite TV show of all-time. The translation is 'FC the champions'. It's a show I watch again on YouTube sometimes just to get connected again with my childhood. I used to watch it every Saturday night. We used to record it on a VHS machine and watch it hundreds of times again, all day Sunday and every day of the week."

9 What question would you ask a team-mate?

Jan: "That's the hardest one. If you could do it all over again, what would you change?"

10 What was your initiation song?

Jan: "That was 'Yellow Submarine' by The Beatles. It was shocking."

11 What advice would you give to your 16-year-old self?

Jan: "Enjoy every day, with the right mentality. I've been in situations where I should have enjoyed every day, but I didn't. Whatever your goals are in life, even if things aren't going your way, enjoy that you have the chance to live and to live a good life."

12 What is your favourite sandwich?

Jan: "I'm going to say spicy chicken in a Suriname style. In Holland, they have very good Suriname kitchens, and also Indonesian kitchens, so a Suriname or Indonesian spicy chicken sandwich."

13 Can you describe your worst hairstyle?

Jan: "I've had a couple. When I went to High School, I didn't have a hairstyle. I look back at pictures now and think 'what was I doing?' I don't think I know what I was doing! It was just a mess!"

14 What is your signature dish?

Jan: "Pancakes."

15 What is the biggest misconception of you?

Jan: "I've heard that I can come across as quite boring. I hope I'm not!"

16 What is your favourite photograph?

Jan: "I have a nice one of me, my girlfriend Sophie and our two kids, we're just sitting in the car, my daughter is jumping around and we're all laughing. It's a nice picture."

17 Do you still have your first medal from junior football?

Jan: "Maybe, in my bedroom at my mother's house. It's like a museum now! When I earned my 100th cap for Belgium, when I won a trophy at Ajax or if I win something, anything, it goes in that room."

18 If you could go back in time, where would you go?

Jan: "I would go back to when I was 15 and I'm going to choose a moment when I'm at home, just me, my parents and my brother sitting on the couch, having food at home and enjoying the day. I'd pay a lot of money to have that situation again."
